WHY RENTING MAKES GOOD BUSINESS SENSE

» You're able to meet sudden demands

When work gets busy, equipment breaks down, renting can put the equipment back into your hands so you can get it done.

» Stretch your budget

Equipment is rarely used all the time, why pay when you're not using it?

» Utilise operating expense

Business capital is scarce, renting allows you to free up cash so you can use that capital to earn additional profits.

» Try before you buy

Find the best piece of equipment to match your needs by renting it first.

» Recover costs

Rental payments are often fully tax deductible and can be recovered quicker than depreciating assets.

» Eliminate running costs

In rental, we calibrate, store and maintain the equipment so you don't have to.

» Simplify cost allocation

Rental payments are easy to track in your business. Give the finance department the hard earned break they deserve!

» Try the latest and greatest equipment

Technology moves so fast these days that before you know it, that great piece of equipment you bought is superseded. Keep up with the latest by renting or leasing.

» Preserve credit

If you're a smaller business, then often there is not enough capital to buy this equipment. Avoid using credit facilities by renting, or rent and buy.

» Technical support

In the unlikely event that our equipment breaks down, you will not be at a loss as we will replace it immediately at no extra charge.
